ADDA is a team of individuals with distinct ideologies coming together. Their strength lies in the ability to conceive master planning, architecture, interior and landscape design with strong conceptual unity and clarity.

Mayank Paarekh, Kaushal Laheri and Dhaval Shah, ADDA founders and college friends, were just like any other architects with big dreams and aspirations to work together using their experience of architectural training at different firms. Established in 2011, the team of three started doing projects with limited opportunities at hand, gradually growing into a larger team structure.

Developing innovative design solutions that are contextual, creating spaces that focus on the experiential value and experimenting with material aspects of a project while still contributing to sustainability, form the firm's design philosophy.

Developing innovative design solutions that are contextual, creating spaces that focus on the experiential value and experimenting with material aspects of a project while still contributing to sustainability, form the firm's design philosophy.

Having a niche in innovative space design with years of delivering luxurious and high-end projects, team ADDA aspires to work on much larger projects pan India, focusing their design style inclining on a vision more towards green buildings.

Some of the eminent projects by team ADDA includes ADDA Office, their own design studio in Surat, that reflects their personal style of how an office space should look like; Farmville, a farmhouse reconstructed in Surat, using the design and elements in a way that it connects the space to the nature; Oriana Façade, an Office Space in Surat created with workspace as an open display of organization's professional ethos; and a luxury 3 storey residence for their client Mr.Kheni, in Ahmedabad.
